

ELLEN WALDMAN

Ellen Waldman is Vice President, Advocacy & Educational Outreach for The International Institute for Conflict Prevention and Resolution (CPR), a global non-profit organization that manages conflict to enable purpose.

In her role at CPR, Ellen writes and presents on issues of interest to the dispute management community, leads initiatives in building the capacity for dispute management, and further develops CPR's academic and student programs.

In addition to having been a long-time Professor at Thomas Jefferson School of Law in San Diego, Ellen has had visiting professorships at Peking School of Transnational Law (Shenzhen, China), Quinnipiac University School of Law and Benjamin Cardozo School of Law. Ellen was also the former chair of the International Mediation Institute's ethics committee, and a task-force member for the California Judicial Council's working-group on training requirements for court-connected mediators. Ellen is also the former co-chair of the American Bar Association Dispute Resolution Section's committee on health care and past member of the Section's ethics committee.

Ellen has published more than 25 articles on numerous dispute resolution topics. She crafted the first book-length treatment of ethical dilemmas in mediation, Mediation Ethics: Cases and Commentaries.

Ellen graduated with a BA from Brown University, earned a JD from the New York University School of Law, and earned an LLM from the University of Virginia School of Law.
