Named for the first woman appointed to the New Jersey Supreme Court, our Inn was the first Inn of Court devoted exclusively to Alternative Dispute Resolution (“ADR”).

Justice Marie L. Garibaldi was a champion of expanding dispute resolution choices in New Jersey and our Inn continues to support and innovate in the field of complementary and alternative dispute resolution. The judges, advocates, and neutrals who make up our Inn community participate in Supreme Court committees, state-wide programs, and legislative efforts to support ADR. We are committed to fostering civility in the New Jersey legal community.

Every advocate must understand negotiation, dispute resolution options, and settlement possibilities and pitfalls. The JMLG ADR Inn has always excelled in programming directed to these critical topics that are so important to you.

to advance the rule of law by achieving the highest level of professionalism through example, education, and mentoring.

Our programming is interactive, original, and dynamic, where leading national academics and speakers on key negotiation, arbitration, and mediation issues visit and share their insights. Past topics have included a range of legal and ADR issues, as well as teachings from other disciplines, including psychology, comparative studies, and even a police hostage negotiation team leader.

We recognize outstanding contributions to the field of ADR with an annual award named for Richard K. Jeydel, one of our founding Inn members.

The JMLG ADR Inn also provides a scholarship program, with the aim of introducing and expanding interest in ADR at the law school level.

Through its Academy program, the JMLG ADR Inn also provides substantive training in ADR to various groups, including other Inns of Court.

The JMLG ADR Inn is governed by an Executive Committee, which consists of a diverse group of longtime and newer members from all facets of the ADR community.

As a member of the JMLG ADR Inn, you will be a welcome member of our community where we foster collegiality and the vision and mission of the American Inns of Court – professionalism, ethics, civility, and excellence – all of which are closely aligned with the practice of ADR.
