Brian is a seasoned insurance professional with 37 years of experience, specializing in healthcare liability and claims management. His career began as a multi-line claims adjuster with USF&G Insurance Company, where he built a strong foundation in insurance operations immediately after college.

He later joined PHICO (Pennsylvania Hospital Insurance Company), marking the beginning of his focus on medical malpractice. Brian served as PHICO's field representative for Maryland before transitioning to a supervisory role at the home office, overseeing multi-state jurisdictions. He remained with PHICO until its insolvency in 2002.

Following shifts in medical malpractice insurance marketplace, Brian entered the world of third-party administration (TPA), where, over 20 years, he held several leadership roles including Office Manager, Regional Vice President, and Chief Operating Officer. During this time he began working with RWJBarnabas Health, where he continues to manage claims and litigation matters within a sizable self insured retention program.

Brian is deeply passionate about healthcare liability and remains committed to delivering strategic, client-focused solutions. His extensive experience, leadership acumen, and dedication to his craft make him a trusted partner and advocate for his clients.

Robert Mores (Bob) recently retired from Marsh McLennan after a 40+ year career of providing insurance and risk management advice to the largest and most prestigious healthcare systems in New Jersey and New York as well as a Fortune 500 healthcare consumer goods/medical device manufacturers.

Bob's career began in 1979 with the St. Paul Cos. as a loss control consultant working with hospitals and nursing homes to help them develop safety programs to protect employees and facilities. In 1984 he joined Johnson & Higgins (which subsequently merged with Marsh & McLennan in 1997) where he consulted with clients on a national basis and gained additional experience assisting clients manage their risks. Bob received promotions with increasing responsibility resulting in him managing the casualty loss control consulting practice as well as the casualty claim practice. This varied experience positioned him to be promoted to client executive, a role which oversees the delivery of all services to the firm's client base.

As organizations faced a changing risk landscape, Bob provided strategic guidance as to how they could manage "new" risks such as terrorism, cyber threats and pandemics. He provided advice on the use of captive insurance companies, risk retention groups and how to access global insurance capacity differently which resulted in improved financial and operational results.

Bob holds Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees from New Jersey Institute of Technology and did additional post graduate studies at NYU and St. John's College of Insurance. Bob also served as an Adjunct Professor at NJIT where he lectured on risk management and the legal aspects of health and safety.

Currently, Bob serves as an outside board member for a Fortune 500 consumer goods/medical device organization's captive insurance company and New Jersey's largest academic health system.

Additionally, he serves as Vice Chair of the East Hanover Environmental Commission.
